The exposure visit to Sarlahi helped to strengthen the relation between the team of information centers considering their identical nature of service along with sharing of ideas and working modalities helped to learn and implement them considering the effectiveness and reform the working procedure to aware and advocate migrant workers in the effective way.

Outreach Experience "getting to know migrant workers and their peril better than ever"

"I haven't gone through my contract, agent is bringing my documents in a while"; "I haven't left copy of documents at home; why do I need to leave it"; "How much money do I need to give you for your counseling"; "I can't write my name"; "One of my relatives wants to return from Malaysia as his salary and working hours is different than what he had been told, what can he do in this situation" the migrant workers and their families met at TIA and CPO are often heard saying while the agents interrupt between the counseling stating, "Why are you disturbing these migrant workers they don't need your counseling".

I participated in the outreach activities continuously for one and half years as an outreach team leader in the places like Central Passport Officer and Tribhuvan International Airport, which proved to be efficient among other places of migrants and their families concentration due to their massive presence. I had interaction and experience sharing with thousands of potential migrant workers, returnee migrant workers, the family members of the migrant workers, victimized migrant workers, recruitment agencies officials and registered and unregistered agents in the course of outreach.

I had faced lots of queries and questions during my outreach visit. I am quite surprised to know that people believe "nothing comes for free". I feel glad when they share the things and even show some interest in my work. However, their questions sometimes make me question myself "is there any legal provision effective or rather is there anything like foreign employment act workable", when will people respect rights of migrant workers?" However, whatever I am doing might not necessarily be the best thing but I believe it is for their own welfare and would be effective if we get support from the migrant workers and even from the concerned government line agencies.

The response of migrant workers made me realize that they are compelled to go abroad even after they realized the contract has been violated because, by the time they had known they would have been already debt bondage and are left with no other option rather than going and being exploited, undocumented and the consequences are always likely to be plight. I realized that migrant workers are very incognizant and highly guided and manipulated by agent and recruiting agencies. They don't believe in government and they are not aware of legal provision for the compensation in case of frauds and deception in foreign employment.

During my outreach work I have never found the presence of concern government officials or even media to reveal the fraudulent activities around the airport entrance. I had received the appreciation from the migrant workers and their families for sharing information whereas sometimes reflection of frustration of the migrant workers who were victimized and got no support from anyone. I should not forget to mention the threats of agents and recruiting agency as well.

The outreach activities have been always challenging but it has proved to be very effective to consistent and persistent ongoing program. I must say it has drawn the attention of concerned line agencies and program efficiency has been appreciated.
